My dear John:-

I guess you will not mind if I write you a few lines, but we are invited over to Mr Frank Turquist's home next Saturday night, but the trouble now lies whether you are able to let the school go for that night. I do not want you to get behind the class, but you know that I am very anxious for you to come.

The party is given in honor of his brother Albert, and Frank was so nice as to see that some of his friends could be invited, and so I extend this invitation on to you, with the understanding that we must come!

When we were not invited last Saturday, we are for this Saturday

Frustrating to receive your favorable reply, I remain lovingly

Your own

Kath
