My dear John:-

Last night when we met, I forgot ^{one} thing, which I intended to write in the letter I spoke about.

Are your folks going to be in town next Sunday? If so, you are all cordially invited to spend the afternoon with us.

If they cannot, I hope that you will, for I will not disappoint again. Although I ~~stay~~ ^{staid} there over Sunday, ~~and~~ I was just longing for you.

Hoping to receive a favorable reply from my dear boy, also in reference to the picnic, I remain lovingly, your own--

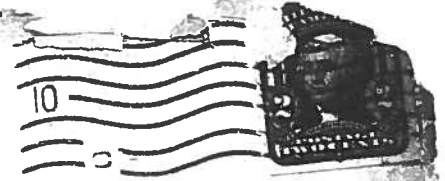

Ruth
