My dear Ruth:-

I promised to write you a long letter this time but I don't think I can for this moving turns every thing upside down so there is no place to move around and much less to write, so you have to excuse me for this time, I can pay up for it some other time.

I don't have to tell you about the picnic across the lake for you know all about it already for Yolmar. Annie tells every thing she knows, but I didn't decide with Yolmar to go across the lake a week from Sunday, for I thought to myself that we can go alone just as well, so wait till Saturday and we will talk it over.

I'll be over next Saturday afternoon at said time, for I can get off then, for Friday night we are going to school to pay up for the picnic night.

Did Annie tell you that I was in swimming last night? well the water was fine I wish you could have seen us in there, we felt like fish before caught on a hook.

If you saw what I was in writing this letter or you wouldn't expect 4 pages full, but do you see there is another week next week.

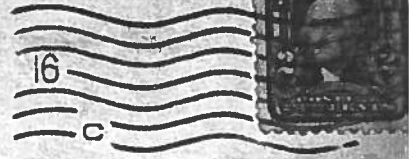

Hoping you all are well and specially you,

I remain as ever

Your own
